Dear Karen Weber:

I am genuinely interested in the Staff Association position at Analytics8. As a recent graduate in Business Analytics, I am confident my knowledge and certifications in Business Intelligence programs and methodologies, my two years of experience utilizing SQL to structure and analyze data, and my enthusiasm for professional development would be an outstanding addition to your team.

In my former role as a Financial Business Analyst intern at Badcock, I utilized SQL and Excel in a day-to-day basis to clean, structure, and analyze data in order to develop reports and Power BI dashboards that are used in different departments of the company to drive strategic business decisions. Furthermore, I developed automated reports on Visual Studio using SSRS coding language to streamline the reporting process and facilitate information access.

My eagerness to successfully deliver a high-quality service, my analytical potential to solve complex problems, and my excellent communication skills are a perfect match for your organization. As a person who loves working in teams, I always adopt an efficient approach to deliver high-standard work in order to achieve the project objectives. I feel comfortable designing R and Python scripts to undertake data analysis and create sophisticated visualizations.

I would very much appreciate the opportunity to work with talented and creative people to prove the competent professional that I am and explore my leadership potential. Please, feel free to contact me at miguelamaral98@outlook.com. I look forward to further discussing this position with you soon.

Best Regards,

Miguel Amaral
